Syed, Moin (Chair)
Mixed methods research refers to the use of both qualitative and quantitative research methods. Although mixed methods research has become increasingly visible in the literature, many researchers continue to have questions about what mixed methods research is and how to conduct it. The purpose of this workshop is to provide an overview of mixed methods research to provide such foundational knowledge. The first half of the workshop will consist of a review of the background and rationale of mixed methods research, its relevance for research on emerging adulthood, and an overview of core concepts in mixed methods research. The second half will include a review of the major mixed methods designs with illustrative examples from the literature. We will also cover review criteria for evaluating mixed methods research. Ample time will be provided throughout for participant questions and comments.
