

Become a Founding Member today

As a member, you will contribute to building the Society for the Study of Emerging Adulthood (SSEA), a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing the understanding of development in emerging adulthood (ages 18-29) through scholarship, education, training, policy, and practice.

our history

Since 2003, SSEA has been at the forefront of emerging adulthood research. Supported by the field's preeminent researchers from around the world, the society has organized four international conferences and launched a scholarly journal. As we look toward continuing study in this under-researched field, the SSEA is developing new ways for scholars to exchange ideas, coordinate research, and find new opportunities.

eligibility

SSEA membership is open to researchers, students, educators, policy makers, and practitioners interested in development during this period of life.

benefits

- Receive the Emerging Adulthood journal (Coming Spring 2013)
- Apply to special programs
- Hold office in SSEA government
- Create a Membership Profile on the SSEA website
- Serve as a Conference Panel Reviewer
- Attend networking events
- Register for the biennial conference at a reduced rate
- Volunteer leadership opportunities (e.g. Chair and serve on Committees)
- Nominate and vote in elections
- Propose and participate in Special Interest Groups
- Access Membership list
- Apply for Conference Travel Awards

fees

$95	Full Members	$50	Graduate Student Members
$75	Post-Doc/Early Career	$50	Student Affiliate
$95	General Affiliate	$10	Developing Countries

Join SSEA or get more information at ssea.org

SSEA Mission Statement

The Society for the Study of Emerging Adulthood (SSEA) is a multidisciplinary, international organization with a focus on theory and research related to emerging adulthood, which includes the age range of approximately 18 through 29 years. The primary goal of the Society is to advance the understanding of development in emerging adulthood through scholarship, education, training, policy and practice. This goal is promoted through Biennial Meetings, the flagship journal Emerging Adulthood, and a website that includes information on topics, events, and publications pertaining to emerging adults from diverse backgrounds, cultures, and countries. Membership is open to researchers, policy makers, educators and practitioners with special interests in development during this period of life.