Welcome to SSEA 2019

The 9th Conference on Emerging Adulthood

Dear Conference Attendees,

On behalf of the SSEA 2019 Program Committee and the Governing Council of the Society for the Study of Emerging Adulthood (SSEA), welcome to Toronto, Canada.

The goal of the conference is to bring together a multidisciplinary and internationally diverse network of scholars to advance the study of emerging adulthood (age range 18-29).

This year's theme is critical during this particular historical moment. Placing the theory of Emerging Adulthood into socio-political contexts across cultures, we see the emergence of multiple "emerging adulthood(s)" across the globe (Arnett, 2011). There is great variation in how this period of life is navigated with multiple pathways that differ for diverse youth in the US (Syed & Mitchell, 2013) and cross-culturally (Arnett, 2011).

With cultural and socio-political climates impacting the lives of emerging adults in profound ways, this conference will bring together scholars, researchers, and practitioners in the study of emerging adulthood to explicitly examine the ways power, privilege, marginalization and oppression operate in the lives of emerging adults.

We look forward to pushing this conversation forward together during our time in Toronto. We look forward to an engaging conference that reflects the growing diversity of this field.

SSEA 2019 Program Committee,

Dalal Katsiaficas (Chair)

Maria Wängqvist (Co-Chair)

A Note from the President

Welcome to SSEA 2019, the 9th Conference on Emerging Adulthood!

Welcome to SSEA 2019, the 9th Conference on Emerging Adulthood, in beautiful Toronto, Canada! The meeting marks numerous milestones for our growing society.

After a successful thematic meeting in Cluj, Romania in 2018, our gathering in Toronto marks the first time our main meeting has been held outside of the United States. This is only fitting as it reflects that we are truly an international organization with members from around the world. Indeed, our governance continues to draw upon the leadership of members from around the world including the recent election of Dr. Abby Goldstein, our first President-Elect from outside the United States. I hope that our time together will include a celebration of our diversity and the opportunity to learn from everything that each of us has to offer as members of an international organization.

This conference marks the largest program in our society's history stemming from the highest number of submissions in our history. This reflects the continued strength that comes from our graduate students and emerging scholars. It reflects the sustained dedication of numerous members who have contributed and served since the society was first formed. It reflects a membership that includes clinicians, educators, and researchers from a variety of disciplines. We are grateful for the background and professional interests that every member brings to the organization, generally, and this meeting, specifically, as it is because of you that we can provide such a rich and diverse scholarly offering at this conference.

At this meeting, we will reach a milestone in our organizational leadership. The executive leadership has grown to include a president, past-president, and president-elect. This conference marks the end of service on the executive committee of our organization's first elected president, Dr. Seth Schwartz. (I hope you will take the opportunity to thank him for his six years of service to the organization and to express gratitude to Dr. Elizabeth Morgan as she ends her term as president and begins serving as past-president.) The significance of this transition in leadership is that it reflects the growth of our organization as we have fully transitioned from a society that was first led by a steering committee to, now, the stability of a fully established leadership structure of an executive committee (including executive director), governing council, topic networks directed by exceptional chairs and co-chairs, and the dedicated service of committee leaders in charge of communication, membership, and fund development. We have grown into a complete, stable, and strong organization. Congratulations to all of us and thanks to all who serve. We hope to celebrate our growth in these days together.

I am excited for all that we have to offer you at this conference because of the wonderful leadership and preparation of the conference committee chair, Dr. Dalal Katsiaficas, and co-chairs, Dr. Maria Wängqvist and Dr. Abby Goldstein, and the entire organizing committee as well as the dedicated work of our SSEA coordinator, Lisa Gaudette. Thanks to all of them for their dedicated service.

We are delighted to have Dr. William Perez as our keynote speaker and an exceptional lineup of master lectures, invited symposia, invited discussion sections, paper sessions, and the Presidential Symposium chaired by Dr. Elizabeth Morgan. Our poster sessions (including the session that marks our welcome reception on Thursday evening) provide us the opportunity to not only present and learn about so much of the work being done by those in attendance but to really discuss that work, build networks, and interact with one another. Finally, we hope that you will take advantage of a strong schedule of pre-conference workshops and Dinner and Storytelling Show on Friday night.

I hope that you will enjoy all that is being offered and, in the process, will learn and be inspired with new ideas, reach out to make new associates, and enjoy reconnecting with old friends and colleagues. I hope that senior scholars will take the time and opportunities to mentor and nurture early-career scholars and students. I hope we will remember to be respectful and kind while engaging in dialogue with one another and while interacting with the incredible conference and venue staff. My sincerest desire is that you will walk away from our time together motivated by the intellectual offerings, warmed by your social interactions, and agreeably tired but fulfilled by having taken advantage of all that the 9th Conference of the Society for the Study of Emerging Adulthood has to offer!

Enjoy the conference!

EMERGING ADULTHOOD SERIES

SERIES EDITOR Larry J. Nelson

The Emerging Adulthood Series provides a publication venue that allows for an in-depth, multi-disciplinary, and multi-method examination into key factors that influence young peoples' paths into adulthood. It highlights the diversity and individual experiences that are often left out of attempts to categorize a time period, and examines the successes and struggles experienced by young people as they leave adolescence and move into and through their twenties.

Young Adult Development at the School-to-Work Transition: International Pathways and Processes

Edited by E. Anne Marshall and Jennifer E. Symonds

School to work pathways and transitions are key developmental processes in young adulthood. This book examines social, cultural, familial, contextual, and personal factors that shape these pathways. Internationally renowned scholars in the fields of developmental psychology, applied psychology, counselling, and sociology have contributed chapters focusing on theory, research and application related to school to work and educational transitions. The authors also give attention to groups who have particular transition issues, including young adults with disabilities and special needs, cultural minorities, international students, and migrants.

2020 • Hardcover • 9780190941512

E. Anne Marshall is Professor Emerita of Counselling Psychology in the Educational Psychology and Leadership Studies Department at the University of Victoria, Canada. A registered psychologist, her teaching and community-engaged research focus on adolescent and young adult well-being, life and work transitions, and mental health in cultural and community contexts, particularly for Indigenous communities and marginalized youth.

Jennifer E. Symonds is a lifespan developmental psychologist of education and Associate Professor of Education at the School of Education, University College Dublin, Republic of Ireland. Her research seeks to explain and enhance how individuals engage with learning and working in childhood, adolescence and young adulthood.

CALL FOR PAPERS AND SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

SUBMISSION TIMELINE

- Call for papers and submission portal (www.ssea.org) open: November 30th, 2019
- Submission deadline for those requiring an expedited review: January 10th, 2020 (notifications of acceptance will be provided by January 24th, 2020)
- Abstract submission deadline: February 28th, 2020 (notifications of acceptance will be provided by March 27th, 2018)

SELECTION CRITERIA

1. Focus of the proposal is on emerging adulthood (age range 18-29).
2. Importance of the topic for the conference themes.
3. For empirical presentations, methods must be appropriate for the research question(s). Research using quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods are all encouraged.

Please note: There is a limit of two submissions by the same first author.

ABSTRACT TO SUBMIT

The submitted abstract should include a proposal of no more than 500 words (approximately 2 double-spaced pages) containing the following: title, introduction to the research question(s), description of methods, results, brief discussion and implications. In addition, proposals may contain up to two figures, tables, charts or graphs (reference list is not required). For more details, see www.ssea.org.

FORMATS

Three types of submission formats will be considered:

- Individual papers: 15-minute oral presentation. NOTE: Some proposals submitted as paper presentations may be accepted as poster presentations.
- Posters: Individual Posters will be presented during general poster sessions, having the opportunity to present work to all conference participants who attend.
- Paper symposia: A Paper Symposium includes a series of presentations on a common topic. Submissions for paper symposia should include an abstract for each presentation as well as an integrative statement of no more than 500 words.

We are waiting for you in Milan!

Co-Chairs: Brian Willoughby, Scott Sibley, Spencer Olmstead, Kristin Anders

Thursday, October 10, 2019, 8-12pm

Room: Halton

Developing Preregistration Plans for Research on Emerging Adulthood

Preregistration involves specifying your design and analysis plan prior to conducting any data analysis, which helps make clearer distinctions between preplanned analyses and exploratory analyses. In this workshop we will discuss the background and rationale for preregistering your studies, and will discuss how preregistration can be used in longitudinal, qualitative, and mixed methods studies, which pose several challenges to traditional models of preregistration developed in the context of experimental work. The workshop will consist of a mix of lectures and activities, and by the end of the session they will be prepared to write preregistration plans for their own research.

Chair: Moin Syed

Emerging Adults' Understanding of their Intersecting Identities: Theoretical, Developmental, and Methodological Issues

Dr. Margarita Azmitia, an immigrant from Guatemala, is a professor of developmental psychology at the University of California at Santa Cruz and serves as the UCSC coordinator of the UC Consortium on Adolescence Science and as a member-at-large on the leadership of SRCD's Latino Caucus. Her mixed-methods, interdisciplinary research program focuses on the role of close relationships, identity intersectionalities (gender, sexuality, ethnicity/race, and social class), and lived experiences of prejudice and discrimination in adolescents and emerging adults' school transitions, academic and career trajectories, and well-being.

Keynote Address: Dr. William Perez October 11, 2019, 4:30-6:00pm (Ontario/Niagara)

*Towards a Transnational Perspective on Emerging Adulthood:
Insights from the Binational Experiences of Undocumented, Deported, and Indigenous Mexican American Immigrants*

William Perez is a professor in the School of Education at Loyola Marymount University. He received his BA in psychology from Pomona College and his Ph.D. in Child and Adolescent Development and Educational Psychology from Stanford University. His research focuses on the social and psychological processes associated with academic success and higher education access among immigrant, undocumented, indigenous, and deported students in the U.S. and Mexico. He is recognized as one of the nation's leading academic experts on undocumented students. In 2009, he received the Mildred Garcia Prize for Excellence in Research from the Association for the Study of Higher Education for his book, We ARE Americans: Undocumented Students Pursuing the American Dream. His follow up book, Americans by Heart: Undocumented Latino Students and the Promise of Higher Education, was selected for the 2013 Critics Choice Award by the American Educational Studies Association. He has been interviewed or quoted as an academic expert in various media outlets including NBC Nightly News, Time Magazine, the LA Times, Hispanic Magazine, the Washington Post, and NPR's All Things Considered. He has also received various awards for his research on immigration and education including the Stanford University Distinguished Scholar Alumni Award, the early career scholar award from the Hispanic Research Special Interest Group of the American Educational Research Association and the Fulbright Fellowship. For the past four years (2015-2018), he has been selected for Education Week's annual ranking of the top 200 university-based scholars in the U.S. who are doing the most to influence educational policy and practice.

Master Lecture: Dr. Gail M. Ferguson

October 12, 2019, 3:00 – 4:15pm (Ontario)

The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly of Cultural Globalization for 21st Century Emerging Adults (and What Developmental Science Can Do about It)

Bio: Dr. Gail M. Ferguson is currently a faculty member in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and will be transitioning to the Institute of Child Development at the University of Minnesota for Fall, 2019. Dr. Ferguson’s research focuses on modern forms of cultural transmission among adolescents and emerging adults facilitated by 21st Century globalization (e.g., media, information and communication technologies, consumer goods, and migration). Among other interests, she has pioneered theory, research, and intervention programming on “remote acculturation” a modern form of acculturation among non-migrants exposed to distant cultures via globalization (e.g., the “Americanization” of youth in the Global South); and more recently, “remote enculturation”, a modern form of enculturation among youth living outside of the country of their family’s heritage who connect to that culture indirectly via globalization (e.g., 2nd generation immigrant youth; international adoptees). A major aim of Dr. Ferguson’s research is to identify and target risk and protective factors in prevention programs that promote the positive development of youth and families in and from the globalizing Majority World (i.e., developing countries).

Presidential Address: Dr. Larry J. Nelson October 12, 2019, 4:30 – 6:00pm (Niagara/Ontario)

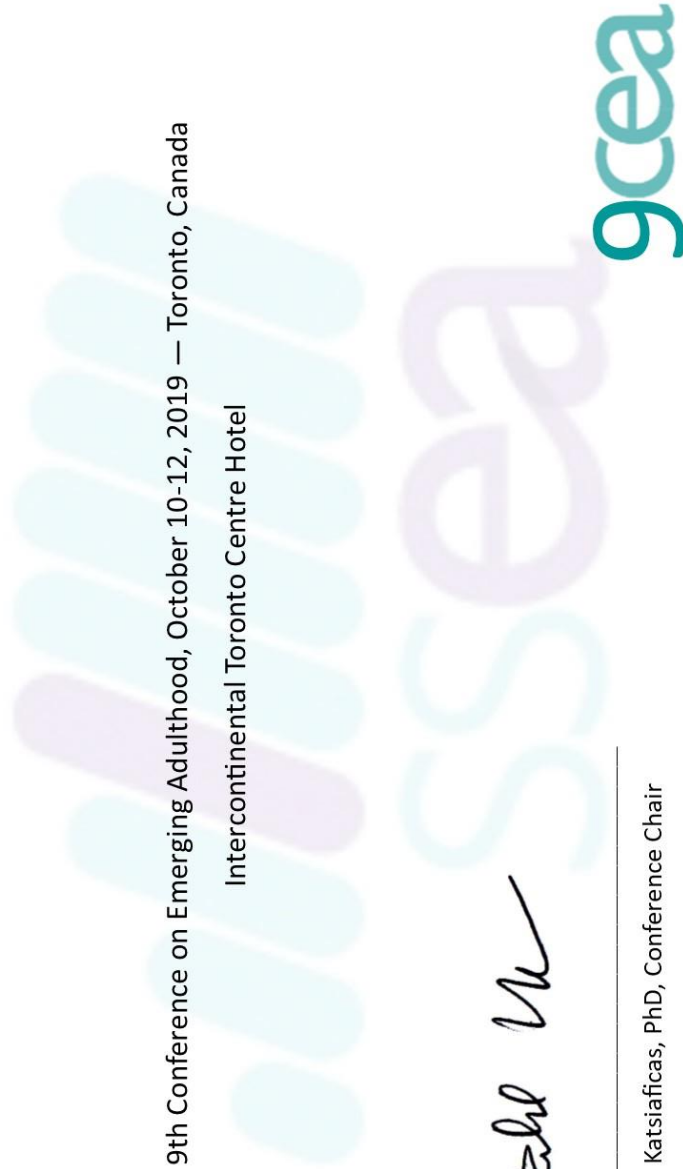

The theory of emerging adulthood was published in May of 2000 so in just a few months we will celebrate a seminal piece of scholarship that for 20 years has shaped how we think about the third decade of life. In honor of that, I would like to revisit some of the distinct features of emerging adulthood that were outlined in Arnett's original theory and subsequent book but look at them a little differently. Because of the work that has been done in the intervening 20 years, we know things now that we simply did not two decades ago. Hence, I will discuss the distinct features outlined in the theory of emerging adulthood in the light of what we know now and then examine those distinctions via a lens that looks not at what those distinct features are but what they afford, or offer, young people for good and for ill. By thinking about what emerging adulthood affords, we can better capture the heterogeneity of the time period and the multiple paths young people take through the period of time that we now know lasts much longer than was conceptualized just 20 years ago. In taking this approach, it is my hope to have us think about the potential positive and negative implications of emerging adulthood on the lives of young people throughout the twenties and into subsequent life stages. Finally, I will underscore the obligation we have to take what we now know about emerging adulthood to help emerging adults via our teaching, counseling, policy efforts, writing, and future scholarship.
